Episode 12
Creating a New Worldview

New podcast episode!

“Inspiring purpose, transforming worldviews, and living your truth.”

David Lorimer

David Lorimer is a powerhouse who's in a pivotal position for making contributions that would change the world. Not only is he instrumental in delivering conference events that stretch reality beyond its conventional reaches, but for about 30 years he has been delivering thoughtful reviews of some 200 non-fiction books, in the realm of consciousness and right-action, a year. It is staggering to contemplate. The Scientific and Medical Network (SMN), the organization of changemakers out of England that he operates from, gives him a power beyond himself to do the good he is intent on delivering. I've known David for many years, and in the podcast we talk about linking up to do a project from an idea we had independent of each other that could go a ways to changing everything.
